About Jackie

After completing a PhD in physics at the University of Washington and a postdoc in chemistry at UVA, Jackie moved to a consultant position at BCG in Chicago. She was there for nearly two years and worked in healthcare and industrial goods doing strategy and operations cases. She recently moved to the internal consulting team at Schindler Elevator, where she focuses on strategy and ops cases across Schindler's US organization.

She loves to run and hike and crochet. She still reads scientific articles from time to time and continues tutoring to keep up her skill set. She lives in Chicago with her husband, three cats, a dog, and has a baby on the way.
